Subject: Letter of Favorable Communication

Dear Admiral Frost:

Aware of the impending reassignment of [redacted] [redacted] I would like to offer a few comments on this outstanding officer with whom we have worked so closely for the past four years.

[redacted] truly qualifies as one of the few pioneers whose untiring efforts have added so much to the mutual understanding and working compatibility between our organizations. Whole new areas of productive research can be traced to these efforts and speaking from my vantage point, I am very proud of our collective accomplishments. All of his friends here are earnestly hoping that [redacted] new assignment will be truly challenging of his technical abilities as well as provide the opportunity for his many fine personal attributes of personality, integrity, drive and dedication to be carried on in full employment status.

Your consideration of these observations is highly appreciated.
It is regrettable that [redacted] is now to be transferred, but within this pattern of military rotation I would selfishly cling to the hope that it might one day be our fortune to have him assigned to this Center.

Most sincerely yours,

25X1
